Scorecards

See also: State scorecards and Ballotpedia's scorecards in Connecticut

A scorecard evaluates a legislator's voting record on issues that are important to certain political positions. Because scorecards have varying purposes and methodologies, each report should be considered on its own merits. For example, an organization may choose to score only a few issues or may weight voting records on certain issues more heavily than others to evaluate the voting record.

Ballotpedia is in the process of developing scorecards for all Congressional scorecards. Some states have a limited number of scorecards available, and others have scorecards only for select groups. It is Ballotpedia's goal to be the most comprehensive source of available scorecards.
