A scorecard evaluates a legislator's voting record. Its purpose is to inform voters about the legislator's position on issues that are of interest to a particular organization. Scorecards are created by interest groups, political parties, and others to identify the members, or candidates, who support a concerned issue, resulting in rating received a low score or letter grade, or a lowscorecard is assigned and may evaluate the voting record for a whole.

Ballotpedia's scorecards feature legislators' voting records on issues in state legislatures. Some states have a limited number of available scorecards or no scorecards available for their legislature. Ballotpedia's goal is to provide all available scorecards regardless of ideology or rating.

Ballotpedia's scorecards feature legislators' voting records on all 50 states. To contribute to the list of West Virginia scorecards, email suggestions to editor@ballotpedia.org.
