A local politician is about to accept one of the most powerful jobs in the state.

Gov. Rick Scott is expected to name Jimmy Patronis to replace Jeff Atwater as Florida's Chief Financial Officer.

Scott has called a news conference to make the announcement at 8:30 a.m. Monday at Captain Anderson's Restaurant.

Patronis is a former state representative and currently a member of the Florida Public Service Commission. He was an early supporter of Scott when he first announced his run for governor seven years ago.

We will have more details on the story on News 13 tonight at 10.
